

Sample Code Repository

Welcome to Service Objects Sample Code Repository

Here you will find useful snippets for integrating our services with a variety of languages over several transmission protocols. Code snippets are designed to give developers an idea of how to make the calls to Service Objects web services and collect the result. They are not complete solutions, but helpful for giving a good starting point. There may also not be a complete set of snippets for all of the languages Service Objects supports. We will continue adding more and more snippets over time. For sample code in additional languages or more complete example applications, visit the sample code page on our website: <http://www.serviceobjects.com/support/sample-code>. If you do not see sample code for your current environment please feel free to contact us to assist you at support@serviceobjects.com

We want to hear from you! We're always looking to improve our developer guides. Please email your suggestions to devguidefeedback@serviceobjects.com
